EDITOR'S PREFACE:

Having received the legacy from Thomas J. Sheppard, who published the two former general catalogues, the author now presents to the old students the results of his labors.

The untiring efforts of the former editor have made the compilation of the present edition comparatively easy.

Particular attention has been paid to the following points:

1. The addition of data hitherto unmentioned concerning alumni, especially those deceased
2. The addition of full middle names.
3. The addition of biographical sketches of the Faculty.
4. The completion of the list of Trustees.
5. The addition of the names of such non graduates as completed the Freshman year.
6. The addition of matter pertinent to the Alumni Association.

This work has fairly opened my eyes to the desirability of a larger work, which might contain (a), complete Biographical Sketches of all alumni and old students, especially of those deceased, (b), Historical Sketch of the College, illustrated by cuts of the old college buildings, and of the various Presidents and Professors, (c), Short Sketches of the Franklin and Calliopean Societies, (d), Commencement Programs, from 1831 to 1885; (e), Constitution and Laws of the Alumni Association, (f), War Record of Denison University; and many other interesting matters.

In the present edition I have made no special effort to gather information regarding non-graduate students, such being beyond the reach of my resources. This defect needs remedying.

The letters C and F stand for Calliopean and Franklin. A dash after an initial, indicates lack of knowledge of middle name. Where no dash follows an initial, there is no middle name.

Place and date of birth and death are given, where known. Changes, corrections, and further information regarding all old students, are earnestly sought.

Old catalogues, pamphlets, circulars, programs, papers, pictures of the old college buildings, copies of addresses delivered by old students, old text books, photographs of old students, obituary or marriage notices, in fact, anything relating to Granville College or town, will be gratefully received by

FRANCIS W. SHEPARDSON,
Granville, Ohio.

HISTORICAL SKETCH.

At a meeting of the Ohio Baptist Education Society, held at Lebanon, Ohio, in May, 1830, a board of twelve trustees was chosen, to establish a college. The institution was organized at Granville. December 13, 1831, as the Granville Literary and Theological Institution, thirty-seven students being enrolled, the oldest, thirty-seven years of age, the youngest eight, twenty-seven being from Granville, five preachers, seven Baptists, and all but two—William Whitney and Giles Peabody—from Ohio.

The second quarter there were seventy enrolled, the third, seventy-two. The small Baptist Church, with unplastered walls and slab benches, and John Pratt, as sole teacher—such was the inauspicious beginning of the institution.

February 3, 1832, the institution was chartered; in 1845, its name was changed to Granville College; and in 1856, to Denison University, in honor of William S. Denison, the first donor of $10,000.

The gift of a farm, valued at $3,500, by citizens of Granville, determined the location, and a more advantageous site has since been secured. Many attempts have been made to remove the institution, but it is probably permanently located at Granville.

The buildings are four in in number—a frame, used for a gymnasium; two large brick edifices, containing suites of rooms for students, recitation rooms and society halls; and a handsome brick Library Building, the gift of W. H. Doane, of Cincinnati. The University Library contains about 10,000 volumes and the Society Libraries about 2,000 each. There are two College Literary Societies—the Calliopean, founded January 2, 1836, and chartered March 10, 1836. and the Franklin, founded in 1841, and incorporated January 19, 1843; and also, two Preparatory Societies—the Ciceronian, founded in 1860, and the Irving, founded in 1883. A Reading Room and Lecture Association, and a branch of the College Y. M. C. A. are well sustained.

Up to 1863, the productive endowment was but little over $10,000. In June, 1884, the available income was $19,018.11, from an endowment fund of $309,126.39.

The value of buildings, apparatus, grounds, &c., added to this, makes the whole property worth about $425,000.

Of late years especial attention has been paid to the Scientific Department, and a four years' course under Professors of Mathematics, Geology and Zoology; Chemistry and Physics, is a success. A chair of Modern Languages has been added since the last alumni catalogue was issued. The Faculty is now composed of a President, seven professors and three tutors, and there is an average yearly attendance of one hundred and seventy-five students. Rev. A. Owen, D. D., the President, may be addressed for catalogues.

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

The Fourth General Catalogue is herewith presented to the Alumni, with records revised aud corrected to date, so far as possible.

The biographical sketches will be found more complete than before, and several changes in the arrangement of the work will be noticed.

The next catalogue will not be issued until 1893, as the changes of three years hardly warrant the labor and expense attendant upon such a work.

A supplement may be sent out each year, in the form of a bulletin, announcing appointments for commencement, and reporting changes among the Alumni during the year.

The abbreviations used in this catalogue will be readily understood; the letters C and F indicating literary society connection. A dash after an initial indicates lack of knowledge of middle name; where no dash follows an initial, there is no middle name.

Changes, corrections, and further information regarding all old students are earnestly sought by

F. W. Shepardson, Secretary of the Alumni.

THE FACULTY.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

At a Meeting of the Ohio Baptist Education Society, held at Lebanon, Ohio, in May, 1830, a board of twelve trustees was chosen to establish a college. The institution was organized at Granville, December 13, 1831, as the Granville Literary and Theological Institution, thirty-seven students being enrolled, the oldest, thirty-seven years of age, the youngest eight, twenty-seven being from Granville, five preachers, seven Baptists, and all but two—William Whitney and Giles Peabody—from Ohio.

The second quarter there were seventy enrolled, the third, seventy-two. The small Baptist Church, with unplastered walls and slab benches, anp John Pratt as sole teacher—such was the inauspicious beginning of the institution.

February 3, 1832, the institution was chartered; in 1845 its name was changed to Granville College; and in 1855, to Denison University, in honor of William S. Denison, the first donor of $10,000.

The gift of a farm, valued at $3,500, by citizens of Granville, determined the location. and a more advantageous site has since been secured. Many attempts have been made to remove the institution, but it is probably permanently located at Granville.

The buildings are four in number—a frame, to be used as a gymnasium; two large brick edifices, containing suites of rooms for students, recitation rooms and society halls; and a handsome brick Library Building, the gift of W. H. Doane, of Cincinnati. The University Library contains about 14,000 volumes and 4000 pamphlets. There are two College Literary Societies—the Calliopean, founded January 2, 1836, and Chartered March 10, 1836, and the Franklin, founded in 1841, and incorporated January 19, 1843; and also, two Preparatory Societies—the Ciceronian, founded in 1860, and the Irving, founded in 1883. A Reading Room and Lecture Association, and a branch of the College Y. M. C. A., are well sustained.

The value of buildings, apparatus, grounds, &c., at present is about $425.000.

In June, 1887, the Preparatory Department was separated from the college proper, and was given the name of Granville Academy, J. D. S. Riggs, formerly of the University of Chicago, being made Principal.

The Library has been completely overhauled during the past year; the Society Libraries have been consolidated with it, and the whole catalogued according to the Dewey system.

In anticipation of a musuem, the collection of the Granville Historical Society has been placed in the Library, and the Librarian is gathering memorabilia of College and Town.

He will be pleased to receive any donations in the line of old catalogues, programs, pictures, or anything of interest to the historian or antiquarian. Send such to W. H. Cathcart, Librarian.

PREFACE.

A PAMPHLET, published by the Society of Alumni in 1860, contained, besides the address before the Alumni a list of graduates of Denison University so far as known, with an added request for information of any omissions. That was the first step toward an Alumni catalogue.

In 1878 Thomas J. Sheppard, of the class of 1870, published the First General Catalogue, which contained a classified list of graduates of Denison University, with many notes of a biographical character. The few blanks in the book, which indicated lack of knowledge of correct address, but called attention to the importance of Mr. Sheppard's work and the thoroughness with which he accomplished it. To get into communication with graduates, who had not seen Granville for years, some of whom had not been heard from for twenty years or more; to gather information about men who had fallen victims to cholera in time of epidemic, or had given up their lives under the flag of their country or the emblem of a lost cause; to awaken the boys of other days to an appreciation of the fact that they had a common bond of union, and to stimulate them to a lively interest in their Alma Mater, such was the difficult task to which Thomas J. Sheppard devoted much of his time, much of his untiring energy and not a little of his money. Following his idea of making the catalogue triennial, he issued in 1881 the second of the series, which showed advance in several directions. The general features of the first catalogue have been preserved in all subsequent editions. The third catalogue was published in 1885 by Francis W. Shepardson, of the class of 1882. It contained some new features, prominent among which was an attempt at a secondary list of all students who had ever been connected with Denison University long enough to finish the Freshman year. The fourth edition was published by Mr. Shepardson in 1888, the feature just described being absent.

The present is the fifth in the series, and the editor is free to confess that it has fallen below his expectations. There is a positive need for a Denison manual, a handy reference book containing every possible bit of information about Denison University, embellished with engravings of various buildings, and with pictures of the men, some of whom have fallen asleep, others of whom remain to this writing, who have given to the University prayers and tears and consecrated means.

After the reports from the Alumni were received, there was not time in which to carry out some of the plans outlined in the circular letter, and the promises of financial support were not such as to warrant the expense of illustrations.

The picture of the Granville Baptist Church in which Granville Literary and Theological Institution was organized, is taken from Bushnell's History of Granville. In this edition the names are arranged alphabetically by classes, and the first degree given by the University is indicated. In former editions, names of those who had received the degree of B. S. followed those of the classical graduates. The improvement of the curriculum, allowing four lines of study leading to distinct degrees has placed all degrees upon an absolute equality of time required, and the alphabetical arrangement of names is most convenient. The familiar initials C. and F. are used as before to indicate the literary society affiliation.

The Catalogue is not without typographical errors; the most to be regretted of which is the omission from the class of 1889, of the name of Mowry Cada Smith, which is added after the Index along with other matter received too late for insertion in its proper place. In addition to the roll of graduates up to and including 1893, there will be found the names and birth records of the undergraduates enrolled in 1892-3, this matter being given for the information possibly to be desired during the next few years, and for the assistance of the editor of the next general catalogue. The historical matter following the lists is believed to be accurate in statement, the recent progress being indicated by the open letter from President Purinton. Particular attention is called to the note from the librarian of the University. The editor is under obligations to many of the alumni for words of warm encouragement, and has to acknowledge special indebtedness to Mr. W. F. Chamberlin, of the class of 1893. The Granville Times and the Denison Exponent have been liberal in their notices of the Catalogue.

The roll of alumni of Denison now contains the names of four hundred and seven persons, seventy-one of whom are dead, the last one to finish his work on earth, being David E. Owen, of the class of 1866, who died in Newark, Ohio, May 11, 1893, a short time after sending the record, which is given under his name in his class list.

The story of achievement is an honorable one, as a reading of the short biographies will prove, and the number is steadily increasing of those who are adding fresh chapters to it.

Denison University can not boast of its thousands of alumni, for less than half a thousand have received its degrees; it can not boast its millions of endowment, for less than half a million dollars appear on its balance sheet. But, as the years go by and the students of Denison University meet and overcome those of other institutions in fields of honorable rivairy in many sided contests, there is no graduate, whose heart is not warmed anew with love for old Denison, who does not echo the sentiment and feel the emotion of the great orator, as he plead for his Alma Mater and spoke the words which have passed into our literature, "It is, sir, as I have said, a small college. And yet there are those who love it."

SOCIETY OF ALUMNI.

The first meeting of the alumni of Denison University was held in the Baptist Church in Granville, June 28, 1859, the call for it being issued by the Senior class. After prayer by Rev. Henry Fulton, President Jeremiah Hall introduced the orator, Rev. Samson Talbot, '51, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Dayton, O., who spoke upon "The Importance of a Right Moral Development in Education." After the address the alumni, with a few invited guests, met at the Dilley House (Buxton.) A constitution was adopted and officers were chosen as follows: President, William P. Kerr, '45; Vice President, E. M. Downer, '50; Secretary, Francis M. Hall, '56; Treasurer, Henry Fulton, '59. Executive Committee—S. Talbot, '51, C. T. Emerson, '48, Jefferson Brumback, '52, W. G. Pratt, '56, and H. C. Sinnett, '58.

The alumni present at this meeting were: W. P. Kerr, E. M. Downer, C. T. Emerson, S. Talbot, W. G. Pratt, F. M. Hall, H. C. Sinnett, John S. Anderson, P. A. Taylor, H. E. Jones, H. Fulton, G. G. Walker, A. L. Seward, A S. Moore, I. M. Clemens, J. H. Sedgwick, O. C. Briggs, and J. B. Schaff.

A second meeting was held the next day, when suitable resolutions were adopted regarding the retirement of Prof. John Pratt from the chair of Ancient Languages, and a gold-headed cane was ordered presented to him on commencement day, Rev. S. Talbot to make the presentation speech.

These resolutions, with other minutes of the meeting, the address before the society, and a list of the graduates of the university, were published in pamphlet form in Dayton, in 1860.

The society has been in active existence from 1859 and has aimed to have an address, and of late years a poem, before it each year. It has also done much in the way of helping the library, besides furnishing a rallying point for the graduates of the university. Since 1870, its officers have been mentioned in the annual catalogues. Those who have addressed the society are:

FRATERNITY ROLLS.

Denison University has a large body of enthusiastic non-graduate supporters, who are strongly attached to it, because of connection with chapters of fraternities, which by means of circulars sent out at intervals, keep their members informed regarding college affairs. For convenience of reference, lists of the fraternity men are given in the order of the establishment of the chapters in this University.

BRIEF HISTORICAL SKETCH.

The history of Denison University is familiar to the alumni, and only the most essential points will find place in this brief sketch.

Granville Literary and Theological Institution was organized in Granville, Ohio, December 13, 1831, with thirty-seven students, the oldest among them being thirty-seven years of age, and the youngest eight. Twenty-seven of them were from Granville, and all but two—William Whitney and Giles Peabody—were from Ohio. There were five preachers among them, and seven of them were Baptists. In the second quarter there were seventy enrolled, and in the third, seventy-two. The College building was the small Baptist Church, whose walls were unplastered, and whose benches were made of slabs. John Pratt was the sole teacher; in such an humble way did Denison University get its start.

In 1845, the name of the Institution was changed to Granville College, and in 1849, an attempt was made under Elder Carr, as agent, to raise an endowment; little was done, however, because the people had not been educated up to generous giving toward education. In 1850, a hundred and twenty acres of the college farm was sold, as the land was not needed for the manual labor plan, which was not successful. There were stormy times in 1852-3; at one time or another the members of the faculty resigned; the cititizens of Lebanon offered $30,000 towards buildings, if the College should be located there. There was a vigorous movement on the part of the friends of Granville, and quite a little endowment was secured by the sale of scholarships. Plans for removing the college from "the old college farm" to the village began to be considered; there was a change in the faculty; and in 1855, after a hard struggle, the present campus was purchased, for $1,938.16, and the college moved to the village. The next year the name was changed to Denison University, in honor of William S. Denison, of Adamsville, O., who pledged $10,000 to the endowment fund.

From this time the University has flourished with varying degrees of success, the early years of the 'Seventies, and the present time being the most notable periods. The buildings have been erected at various times, the first brick structure and the old frame having been secured about the time of the removal of the institution from the college farm to the present site. The east brick building was erected in 1869-70, the class of 1869 laying the corner stone. The corner stone of Doane Hall was laid in 1878, by the Class of 1878. The new buildings in process of erection are mentioned in the letter from the President.

In 1887, the Preparatory Department was separated from the college proper, and was organized as Granville Academy. The action has been proved a wise one by the experience of the years following.

The University Library contains 16,000 volumes and 12,000 pamphlets. The Society Libraries were deposited in the General Library in 1887, and the whole collection was catalogued according to the Dewey system. The library has many needs, some of which can be satisfied by the gift of a very few dollars. There is no better opening offered to the members of the body of alumni for small donations to the University than is offered by the library.

The organizations of students are well known, and need not be recapitulated here. The most famous of these are the literary societies, the Calliopean, founded January 2, 1836, and chartered March 10, 1836, and the Franklin founded in 1841, and chartered January 19, 1843. There are two societies connected with Granville Academy, the Ciceronian, founded in 1860, and the Irving, in 1883.

Publications under the auspices of students of Denison University have been as follows: The Denisonian (1857); The Collegian, issued monthly during the college year from 1867 to date; The Adytum, a publication of the students, showing the student side of college life, issued in 1882, 1888, 1891 and 1893; The Exponent, a weekly newspaper, founded in 1892 as a private venture. There been other ephemeral publications in commemoration of some special event in college life, but these deserve no mention here.

It had been hoped that a chapter of financial history of the University might be included in this catalogue, but circumstances have prevented. The statement of the Treasurer of the Board of Trustees for 1892 showed the total endowment of the University to be about $421,000. In 1853 the total property of the institution was less than $45,000. Great advances have been made in the forty years, but if Denison University is to hold its place in the front rank of Ohio educational institutions, the endowment funds must be largely increased, in order to allow for enlargement which must not be long delayed. The letter from the President, Dr. Purinton, which follows, will be read with the most careful attention by all.

THE PRESIDENT TO THE ALUMNI.

To the Alumni of Denison University:

GENTLEMEN: It gives me pleasure to report to you the present condition and prospects of the University. Since the publication of the last general catalogue, there has been a commendable advancement along many desirable lines. About $60,000 has been added to the permanent endowment fund. A new Science Hall and a new Academy building have been provided for, and are now in process of erection. These buildings, with their equipment, will cost between $80,000 and $90,000. The former is the gift of E. J. Barney, Esq., of Dayton, the latter, of Dr. W. H. Doane, of Cincinnati. The University campus has been enlarged by the purchase of additional ground, and has been furnished with electric lights and otherwise variously improved. While this material progress has been made, the intellectual and spiritual life of the University has not suffered. The Faculty has been increased until it now includes twenty instructors, the courses of instruction have been increased in number and advanced in character, the student body has grown at a rate hitherto unknown, having nearly doubled in four years and reached an aggregate of 377 students, and the distinctively Christian work of the institution seems to have attained greater vigor than ever before.

All these things are exceedingly encouraging to the trustees, faculty, students and patrons of the University, and to its friends in general, all of whom seem to be actively and harmoniously engaged in advancing its progress and augmenting its success.

But much remains yet to be done, of which there is present and imperative need. Our general endowment fund is quite too small to meet the growing demands upon its annual income. We need additional prize foundations and scholarships, and a few fellowships ought to be established. We need a library endowment, and we need a new Y. M. C. A. building and gymnasium. For this last mentioned purpose, the students and faculty have recently pledged about $10,000, but we must have at least $15,000 more, for which we appeal to the generosity of our friends.

Denison University has always been frugal in its bestowment of honorary degrees. The trustees and the faculty are of the opinion that this frugality ought never to grow less, but the rather to increase. Particularly is it undesirable that the doctorate in philosophy should ever be conferred in this way, as it has been done in a few exceptional cases in the past. It is therefore with peculiar pleasure that the faculty now finds it possible to offer a few substantial graduate courses in philosophy. This does not mean that the University expects to enlarge its graduate work, but it does mean that hereafter applicants for the degree herein mentioned will invariably be referred to the graduate courses here established, or to others in larger institutions where superior facilities are afforded.

In concluding this address, I desire to avail myself of the present opportunity to convey to the entire body of Denison Alumni my high appreciation of their personal worth in so far as it is my privilege to know them, to extend my thanks for many personal and official kindnesses already received; and to express the hope that both the University and its Alumni may find ever increasing occasion for mutual pride, affection and respect. With a message of fraternal regard, I remain

Faithfully Yours, D. B. PURINTON.

BEGINNINGS OF DENISON.

Thursday evening, August 19, 1824, about one hundred of the leading Baptists of Cincinnati gathered in their meeting house and organized "The Cincinnati Baptist Missionary Society," one of whose objects was, "to promote the cause of gospel Missions, and the education of ministers, called and chosen and faithful."

This society at once issued a circular, outlining its purpose, and expressing the desire for a general Baptist Convention. A circular letter from the Board of Directors of the society, under date of Sept. 22, 1825, reviewed the work of the missionaries for one year, and called for a Baptist State convention to meet in Zanesville on the fourth Monday in May, 1826, at 10 o'clock a. m.

In answer to this call, representatives from fifty-four churches and missionary societies met in Zanesville, Monday, May 26, 1826, at eleven o'clock. Granville was not represented at the time, but was admitted to the Convention at the first anniversary, held in Zanesville, May 28-31, 1827. Azariah Hawks was the delegate, and the contribution of the church was $1.41. While the need of an educated ministry was early felt, and the faint tracings of the idea of a school may be seen, the records of the first meetings of the convention are blank as to education. At the second anniversary, held in Zanesville, in 1828, "a letter was read by the Corresponding Secretary from the President of the Board of Trustees of the Columbian College (Georgetown, D. C.) whereupon,

Resolved, That we feel a great interest in the prosperity of that important institution and recommend it to the patronage of our brethren throughout the state."

The next mention of an educational institution in the Ohio Baptist Convention minutes, is found in the report of the sixth anniversary, held in Old-Town, Ross County, May 27-29, 1832, when it is said that.

"A resolution was passed sympathizing with the brethren and friends of the Granville Institution, in the loss sustained by the destruction of all their buildings by fire, &c."

The first volume of records of the Trustees of Denison University is missing, and the only existing account of the early movements toward a college is found in the files of The Western Miscellany, a periodical published by Elder George C. Sedwick, of Zanesville, under the patronage of the Ohio Baptist Convention. From this Miscellany most of the matter following is taken.

No formal call for a meeting of those interested in education is to be found, and, most likely, a few energetic leaders passed the word around among the delegates to the convention, which, in 1830, held its fourth anniversary in Lebanon. It is recorded that, "On the evening of the 25th of May, 1830, the following brethren met at the house of brother Ichabod Corwin, Sr., Lebanon, to take into consideration the expediency of adopting some measures relative to the encouragement of Education in the Baptist Denomination in the State of Ohio, viz: Hubbell Loomis, Geo. C. Sedwick. Wilson Thompson, George Patterson, Jacob Drake, Joshua Bradley, John Boyd, James Berry, Hezekiah Johnson, Hyram Burnet, Allen Darrow, Samuel Williams, Samuel Herrick, Ichabod Corwin, Sr., Noble S. Johnson, Henry Miller, and Thatcher Lewis.

The meeting was organized by appointing Elder Loomis, moderator, and brother Lewis, clerk. After prayer by Elder Loomis, proceeded to business.

(7) Resolved, That when this meeting adjourns it shall be adjourned to meet in Zanesville, on the first Wednesday, the 6th of October next, 1830.

(8) Resolved, That this meeting recommend to the attention of our denomination, the Institution, under the care of Eld. Joshua Bradley, now in successful operation at Middletown, Butler Co , until the contemplated Seminary shall be established. And that brother Bradley be requested to secure the services and library of Eld. Loomis in that institution, if practicable.

(9) Resolved, That Brother Sedwick be requested to publish the proceedings of this meeting in his Miscellany and to furnish gratuitously each member of the committee a copy.

(10) On motion, adjourned. H. LOOMIS, Mod.

THATCHER LEWIS, Clerk.

It is especially noteworthy, that this first meeting was opened with prayer, and one of the resolutions, passed at the second meeting of the Society, recommended, that, "all our meetings be opened and closed by prayer."

Now that sixty-three years have passed away, it is a matter of pride, that Denison University still follows in the path thus marked out, that each day's work is opened by religious exercises, and that the pointing out "the Way, the Truth, and the Life" is considered of the highest importance.

To furnish gratuitously each member of a committee of fifty-one with a copy of his Miscellany in which he had published, by request, the minutes of an important meeting, must have been quite an item in Editor

Sedwick's expense account in those early days. To his credit, be it said, that not only at this time, but on many a subsequent occasion, he gave cheerfully of his endorsement, his talents, his money to build a school. The frequent mention of his name in these notes hardly indicates his prominence in the work.

No history of Denison University will be complete, which does not contain due mention of the great obligation of the institution to the Western Miscellany, and its successors, the Cross and Journal and the Journal and Messenger, and some other papers, for many articles "by request" and many from the editor's heart, all for the upbuilding of the struggling, the growing, or the well established school.

The more especial object of this Society was, "to establish a school for the education of persons of the Baptist denomination, who are approved by the churches of which they may be members, and who have been examined and approved by this Society as suitable candidates for the Gospel Ministry. To this end the Society desires to procure a farm, that the students, especially those, who are preparing for the ministry, may labor a portion of their time, to aid their expenses of education, and the better to prepare them to endure hardness, as good soldiers of Jesus Christ."

The committee, to prepare an address to the churches, published the appeal in the Miscellany. After stating the object of the Society, it is announced that:

"A quarter section of land in Clark County has been offered to the Society, provided the Seminary be located there. There are many advantages connected with this latter place; among others, in Old Town, there is just finished a large and commodious meeting house, ready for the occupancy of Orthodox Baptist ministers. And Deacon Sperry, who built this house, has assured us that it would be open for the use of the institution. This is not only a fertile, but a healthy part of Ross County, near to which the canal passes; and does, perhaps, combine as many advantages as any other country place, that can be found. But we are requested to invite the friends of literature to make their offers to the Society, as their intention is to embrace the most eligible situation, provided it should not be too far removed from the center of the State. It is time, brethren, for us to take a decisive step against the prevailing errors of the day. Let us afford an opportunity to our young ministering brethren, to improve the talents God has given them. Let us locate a school in Ohio under our patronage, where not only the correctness of the present translation of the Scripture will be inculcated, but where the Holy Oracles may be read in the language in which they were originally written by men who were inspired to write as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."

On Wednesday, October 6, 1830, the second meeting of the Education Society was held in the Baptist Meeting House in Zanesville. Those present were Francis Dunlavy, Wilson Thompson, Samuel Herrick, Geo. C. Sedwick, Benoni Allen, James Berry, W. R. McGowan, Allen Darrow, Luther D. Barker, Leo B. Woods, Alfred Dana, G. M. Thompson, T. W. Merrill (of Mich. Terr.), W. Rees, Wm. Spencer, Wm. Sedwick, Jesse Frey, Jacob Stout and Joseph Reed.

The meeting was called to order at two o'clock, Francis Dunlavy being chosen Chairman, and William Sedwick, Secretary. After prayer by Rev. James Berry, of Granville, William Thompson made a statement of the object of the meeting, and the discussion of a proposed Constitution followed. A lengthy communication was read, expressing the views of George Patterson, Noble S. Johnson, John Woolley, Adam McCormick, Thatcher Lewis, A. Dudley and E. Robbins, prominent Baptists of Cincinnati, who wanted the new Seminary located at Newport, Ky. After an animated discussion, "in the course of which every view of the subject appeared to be taken, that its importance seemed to demand," and proper care also being taken of the feelings of the Cincinnati Baptists, it was resolved unanimously, "That, in the opinion of this meeting, the contemplated Seminary ought to be located in this State, in conformity to the principles agreed on at the meeting in May last." George C. Sedwick was appointed to write to the brethren at Cincinnati, giving in detail the reasons offered against a location outside of Ohio. The next morning the Society chose thirty-six Trustees, whose names are given below, as the first organized body to take in charge the business of the school.

THE CONSTITUTION.

There is nothing of special interest in the thirteen articles of the "Constitution of the Literary and Theological Seminary, Under the Patronage of the Regular Baptist Denomination of Christians in Ohio." The government of the institution was "vested in a Board of thirty-six Trustees, all of whom shall be members in good standing in Regular Baptist Churches, who shall be elected annually by the Society, by ballot.

Article IX, reads.

"It is a fundamental principle, that every student shall be required to labor in agriculture or in some mechanical art four hours in each day, on an average of five days in each week, the proceeds of which shall be applied towards defraying the expenses of the institution, including the students' board, washing, etc.

The Executive Committee of the Trustees met in Lebanon, November 2, 1830, and "took into consideration the propriety of securing the services of a teacher, as Principal of the Preparatory School, until the contemplated seminary can be located, and the arrangements made for the accommodation of students; whereupon it was unanimously agreed that Elder Geo. C. Sedwick, of Zanesville, be considered the Principal of the Preparatory School until the annual meeting in March, to whose instruction we recommend our young brethren, preparing for the Ministry."

In accepting the position, Mr. Sedwick announced: "As the Society is just organized, and without funds, books, or any other assistance to afford our young ministers in the acquisition of knowledge, I have concluded to surrender my own library, maps, etc., to the use of the students, until better arrangements can be made. They shall also have access to the various religious periodicals which I receive as editor of "the Regular Baptist Miscellany," published monthly in this place. I have also made arrangements with Mr. Davis, our book seller, to furnish me with any books for the benefit of the students, to be returned with a small premium for the use of them, and the students at any time may have access to his maps for instruction. And Mr. Davis will sell to the students any books and stationery as cheap as they can be obtained anywhere west of the mountains.

The session will commence the 2d Monday in December and close the 2d Friday in May. Tuition fee, $5. Boarding can be had on reasonable terms. Should these young brethren be disposed to board a mile or two out of town, they can make their own arrangements to do so. The walk every day into town will be no disadvantage to their health."

G. C. SEDWICK.

Zanesville, Nov. 6, 1830.

☞ A pair of elegant globes have just been obtained for the use of the P. S. in Zanesville. G. C. S.

Whether this school ever had any pupils or not, there is no record known.

There were several places, which were desirous of securing the new institution. As has been shown, the Cincinnati Baptists favored Newport, Ky., but in this they stood alone, there being a strong feeling that Ohio should have a Baptist college. The offers of the Clark County Baptists and the favorable proposition from Old Town have been mentioned. In addition to these, Newport, Washington county, made a generous offer, and the Baptists of Granville, Licking county, also proposed to give a farm, a mile and a half southwest of the village, estimated to be worth $3,400. Up to this time Granville had not been active in Ohio Baptist affairs, many other churches giving much more money and taking much greater interest in the Convention.

The most weighty consideration in determining the site of the school seems to have been the desire to get "near the center of the state." However that may be, at a meeting held in Lancaster, May 25, 1831, a vote of the trustees was taken, which resulted,

For Granville, ...	30
For Old Town, ...	3

So Granville was chosen.

Now that Denison University has an endowment fund of over $420,000, it is interesting to examine the first subscription paper, in connection with which it must be remembered, that in those days ready money was often difficult to obtain, and that these gifts occasioned more sacrifice than the same would today. The roll of honor - and $1 each from:

For some reason the original plan of a board of thirty-six trustees was modified, and at a meeting in Lancaster, Thursday evening, May 26, 1831, twelve men were elected as a board of trustees:

John McLeod,	Allen Darrow,
Charles Sawyer,	William Sedwick,
Luther Woods,	William Thompson,
Thomas Spellman,	Isaac Sperry,
Jonathan Atwood,	Samuel Carpenter,
Jacob Baker,	Benoni Allen.

and officers were chosen with

John McLeod, President.
Allen Darrow, Secretary.
Luther Woods, Treasurer.

The last business done at this meeting was, "adjourned to meet in Granville at 4 p. m. tomorrow."

During the twenty seven mile ride across the country from Lancaster to Granville, what a busy moving of tongues there must have been, as these men planned for the foundations of Denison University!

Assembling at the appointed time, prayer was offered by Elder Jonathan Going, who was at a later time to become president of the institution. After full discussion, the following resolutions were adopted:

1. Resolved, That it is expedient to establish a college as soon as practicable. under the direction of the Regular Baptists.

2. Resolved, That it is expedient to make immediate arrangements for the commencement of a school as soon as practicable, where the learned languages and higher branches of English education may be taught.

3. Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to make inquiry where a classical teacher may be obtained as principal of said school, who shall also be qualified to instruct students in Theology, and that said committee be Elder George C. Sedwick, J. McLeod and Elder Allen Darrow.

4. Resolved, That we appoint an agent to travel and present the object of the institution, and to collect funds.

Then on motion the Board "adjourned to meet tomorrow, at 5 o'clock a. m."

This early hour seems not to have interfered with the proceedings, since the minutes recorded: "Met agreeable to adjournment." Elder Jonathan Going again led in prayer, and Elder George C. Sedwick was chosen agent of the Institution.

An early number of the Western Miscellany, following the meeting contained this note:—A letter from Brother Allen Darrow, dated Granville, June 2, 1831, says: "We have completed the contract for the farm, and have the deeds executed in the name of John McLeod, in trust for the Board."

At a meeting of the Education Society held in Granville, October 1, 1831, it was determined to increase the number of trustees from twelve to eighteen, and there were chosen,

Geo. C. Sedwick,	Daniel Shaperdson,
John Stevens,	Sylvester Spellman,
George Jeffries,	Jacob Drake.

Application for a charter was at once made to the Legislature, and under act of February 3, 1832, the "Granville Literary and Theological Institution" was incorporated and took its place among the educational institutions of Ohio.

F. W. SHEPARDSON.

THE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY.

As with other departments of the University, the Library had a weak beginning. After the abandonment of the Fairmount Theological Seminary, it secured the library of that institution, a collection containing many valuable books, together with much that was of no real worth, even in its day.

During the administration of President Talbot, a special fund was raised for the Classical Department, and a valuable collection of texts and commentaries was purchased from abroad by Professor William A. Stevens. The Samuel J. Thompson fund, and the Marsh fund yield a small income for the Classical and Mathematical Departments, respectively. There is also a small annual income for general purposes, but it is altogether inadequate for keeping up with the best current publications in any line of literature. The gift of Doane Hall in 1878 placed the Library in convenient quarters; and the application of the Dewey system of cataloguing, a few years since, has made the material in hand much more accessible than it had been before.

So much for the past. Will the Alumni pardon a word as to the future? The growing importance of a well-equipped Library, in college work is recognized by all. There is no line of investigation in which valuable publications are not issued almost continually, and to be denied access to the most important of these is a serious discouragement to the careful student. Other things being equal, the college which can furnish reasonable facilities in this line has a great and increasing advantage over those which cannot. Shall Denison be allowed to fall behind in this respect? Of course we cannot expect, in the near future, a Library such as those of some of our wealthier institutions, but it is within our power to supply all that is essential to successful investigation on the part of students in certain lines, and to show continual growth.

We do not wish to impart a begging tone to these remarks, but we do plead for a place for the University Libaary in the hearts of the Alumni, An occasional gift of books, or of five, ten, one hundred or one thousand dollars would have a highly beneficial influence upon the work of the University, and nothing would be more gratefully received, in proportion to its cost, by the students. The Librarian will always be glad to answer any questions concerning the books most imperatively needed in any particular line, or on any other subject connected with the growth and usefulness of the Library. We have already received many welcome gifts from Alumni, which have been duly acknowledged, but a College Library is an institution whose wants can never be satisfied until the College itself is ready to abandon the idea of further growth.
